TODAY'S MARKET REPORTS

Wheat Shows Weakness to Opening of Trading

Chicago, March 6.—More than 60 a bushel break in prices took place in wheat market today before trading had been in progress an hour. The market was largely inactive. May wheat fell 1.25¢ to $1.35, compared with 1.25¢ at yesterday's finish. Unexpected liberal exports from the southern hemisphere together with rain in India, were largely responsible.

Forecast of rain or snow for the entire domestic grain belt intensified the weakness in the wheat market. Inasmuch as recently drought complaint had been numerous from the western states, as well as from India, on downward price fluctuations were so rapid that orders to sell at figures which were chalked up on the blackboards, proved to be impossible to execute.

As the day approached an end, fresh waves of selling overwhelmed the wheat pit, and May flattened out to below 1.31, nearly 22 cents under Monday's high point. Houses with eastern and southern connections were especially aggressive sellers. Many standing orders to stop losses at certain fixed limits were dislodged, adding to the demoralization of values. As much as 10,000,000 bushels of May wheat is estimated to have been sold out in the wheat bins here today by one firm alone. The fact that this firm has been handling much of the business of one of the leading speculative houses has been identified with the rise in prices this season. The rumor to gossip that he had been unloading his holdings. Such gossip, however, has frequently been current heretofore and failed to be confirmed.

Shortly after midday another extraordinary outbreak of selling was witnessed. New low levels were quickly obtained, May tumbling to 1.32, almost below yesterday's finish. Bottom prices were encountered just before final transactions. The minimum for the May delivery was 1.30 a bushel, an extreme low of 12¢ over night. The close was wild in the market as a whole with net declines ranging from 1/8¢ to 1/4¢. May finishing 1.30, 1.31 and July 1.32 1/2.

STANZAS FROM IN MEMORIAM—
I saw not in any mood
The captive void of noble rage,
The heart born within the cage,
That never knew the summer woods.

I saw not the heart that takes
His home in the fields of time,
Unfettered by the sense of crime,
To whom a conscience never wakes.

New, what may count itself as best,
The heart that never plighted troth,
But staggers in the weeds of sloth,
Nor any want-begotten rest.

I held it true, whatever befall:
I feel it when I sorrow most,
'Tis better to have loved and lost
Than never to have loved at all.
Tennyson.

Doorkeepers' Class Held Meeting

The monthly meeting of the Doorkeepers' class of St. Paul's Lutheran church was held Monday evening at the home of Miss Witzlob, with eight members being present. A basket supper was served at 7 o'clock, after which followed the business meeting. The president opened the meeting with the reading of the Scriptures, and each member answered to roll call with a Bible verse.
After the usual business was transacted, the meeting adjourned to meet the following month with Avis Toor and Cleo Judd as assisting hostesses.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—To Remove Spots.

Remove spots from waxed furniture by sponging the stained portion with turpentine.

Harmony in Feeds.

Consider harmony in selecting and serving foods. Do not serve those that clash in color or flavor.

Pick Your Vegetables.

When you go to market, choose all the perishable fruits and vegetables for yourself. There is no advantage in doing your marketing personally if you merely read off an order to a clerk.

To Thicken Soups.

Two level tablespoons of flour will thicken one cup of liquid for cream soups.

KIWANIS LADIES NIGHT.

The program committee of the Dixon Kiwanis ladies night, which will be held at the district high school ball tournament, will be held at 8 p. m. Monday evening, March 9, at 8 p. m. sharp. Officers will please come prepared for their parts in the initiation to be given.

PHIDIAN ART CLUB TO MEET.

The members of the Phidian Art club will meet Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. A. L. Barlow, 317 Galena Ave. The paper of the afternoon will be given by Miss Dorothy Armstrong on "The Modern Essay, a Forecast."

EASTER MUSIC TO BE FRAGMENTED.

It is important that every member of the Methodist chorus be present at the rehearsal tonight at 7:30. The music for Easter will be practiced at this time.

SMART VEST POPULAR

Here is what many a smart maid prefers to wear in place of a blouse under her spring tailleur—a vest of pique or satin, with large buttons and a pocket or so for a watchfob, and one of the very tiny kerchiefs that are so nifty and feminine. It is apt to be much neater than a blouse which does not give such a smooth, unwrinkled foundation.

Menus for the Family

Breakfast:
Baked apples, cereal, thin cream, cinnamon toast, creamed mutton on toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon:
Noodle soup, toast sticks, raisin and pepper salad, strawberry jam cake, milk, tea.

Dinner:
Stewed brisket of beef, mashed potatoes, buttered parsnip, spring salad, whole wheat bread, jellied prune pudding, milk, coffee.

The cinnamon toast adds a piquant touch to an otherwise mildly flavored breakfast.

The creamed mutton is planned to use up some of the "left-over" of a braised mutton dinner.

Stewed Brisket of Beef.
Six pounds fresh brisket of beef, vinegar, salt, 3 carrots, 1 small onion, 10 peppercorns, "bouquet-garni," 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour.

Wipe meat with a damp cloth and rub well with vinegar and salt. Use a much stronger salt than for the soup and about 3 teaspoons salt. Let stand three hours. Put into a kettle just large enough to hold the meat and pour over boiling water to cover. Bring to the boiling point and skim well. Simmer for one hour and add carrots and turnips diced and onion cut in thin slices. Mince the herbs in the "bouquet-garni" and add with two teaspoons salt and peppercorns to meat. Cover closely and cook two hours longer. Melt butter, stir in flour and cook, stirring constantly until a rich brown. When meat is tender, put on a hot platter, remove bones and surround with vegetables. Strain stock and add enough boiling water to make two cups, and add to browned butter. Stir until boiling. Let boil two minutes, season with salt and pepper and serve.

Raisin and Pepper Salad.
One-half cup seeded raisins, 1/2 cup cottage cheese, 2 green sweet peppers. Thousand Island dressing let tuce.

Cook raisins until plump. Drain and chill. Cut peppers in thin slices and remove seeds. Combine raisins and cheese and fill pepper slices with mixture. Serve on a bed of crisp lettuce and a Thousand Island dressing.

Thousand Island Dressing.
One-half cup minced raisins, 1 tablespoon oil, 1 teaspoon vinegar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon paprika, 2 teaspoons minced stuffed olives, 4 tablespoons chili sauce.

Beat oil in dressing. Add vinegar, salt, paprika and olives and mix thoroughly. Slowly beat in chili sauce and serve.

Strawberry Jam Cake.
One-half cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 3 eggs, 4 tablespoons thick sour milk, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 cups flour, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 cup strawberry jam.

Cream butter and slowly beat in sugar and the unbeaten yolks of the eggs. Beat well and add the milk with soda dissolved in it. Rub jam through a strainer to make smooth. Mix and sift and add alternately to first mixture with the sifted jam. Fold in the whites of the eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Turn into two oiled and floured layer-cake pans and bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven. Put layers together with strawberry jam and ice with a boiled icing.

DIXON WON FIRST TOURNAMENT GAME ON DEKALB FLOOR

Bowers' Boys to Meet Sycamore in Second This Afternoon.

The D. H. S. basketball team won their preliminary contest in the DeKalb District Tournament Thursday afternoon when they defeated Shabbona 29 13 in a game that was much closer than indicated by the score. By virtue of this victory Dixon will meet Sycamore at 2:30 Friday. Sycamore made a poor showing against Ashton, but won 27 15. It is possible however that Shabbona has more than they have shown thus far.

Dixon fans were greatly encouraged by the way Dixon found the basket, showing great improvement in this department over the showing made against Sterling, while they had much better luck with free throws.

Every one of the ten men making the trip was given an opportunity for a workout, including Abbott who has been under the weather with bronchitis.

Shabbona started the game with a rush that predicted a hard race for Bowers' boys; however Dixon fans were relieved to certain extent as the Dixon lead increased. The end of the first eight minutes found Dixon with four points to their credit while Shabbona was forced to be content with two free throws. In the second quarter Dixon repeated their performance while Shabbona gathered seven points making the score 20 9 at the half way mark.

The third quarter was hard fought with little scoring on either side. Dixon raising their count to 24 while Shabbona was again held to a pair of free throws. The last quarter was a struggle for the good floor work of both teams, although neither side scored to amount to anything Dixon being held to five points while Shabbona found the basket on one occasion. The final score was Dixon 29; Shabbona 13.

Franklin Grove Bowlers Defeat Christian Team

The Franklin Grove bowling team was 152 pins better than the Lutheran team five last evening when they rolled on the Y alleys in the combination church and business men's tournament. The Lutheran regular side won mostly under the weather and so substitutions had to be made who did the best they could but the boys from Franklin had but little trouble in getting the best of it.

Bowling Alleys Will be Closed for Repairs

Manager Otto Peters of the Pastime bowling alleys will close this place of amusement for a few days while a crew of specialists from Rockford will take charge of the alleys at once resurfacing them and placing them in first class condition to be completed for the games to be rolled in the Elks tournament series.

shotgun barrels were protruding. The first shots hit both men.

According to Rohan, only one man was seen to run from the ambush, he was fired at but failed to show any evidence that he had been hit.

THE RESPONSIBLE GENERATION.

A prominent Canadian is quoted as saying that a Boy Scout membership of 30,000 would just about remake Canada in a generation. He said also:
"It is within the power of the men and women of one generation to give such a setting for the social and spiritual life of the next generation as to greatly alter its character. Can we not marshal the intelligence, the will and the aspirations of the people to make that setting such as will bring the hope of all the ages, the hope of peace, happiness and noble endeavor, nearer realizations?"
There have lately been evidences of a reaction against popular despair over the younger generation. Defenders have risen in many quarters to urge the public to have faith in the boys and girls.
The youngsters are bound to have ideas of their own, to assert their independence in ways disconcerting to their elders, but to any one who sees the problem sanely there is very little that is really new or alarming in this situation. And it is just as well, now and then to have some one remind the men and women of any generation that they not only have it within their power to influence these children greatly, but that their influence is inevitable. Certainly the complainers and worriers might much better be looking at themselves to discover whether they are giving the rising generation the right setting for its best spiritual and social growth. We of this generation were not boosted much, we started badly in the eyes of our forebears, but we feel superior now. Let's boost, not kick.

TEACHING SPORTS IN FILMS.

Foreign languages, singing and reducing exercises may be learned with the aid of a phonograph and the proper records. In the British Isles movies patrons may learn what to do and what not to do in many different sports such as running, rowing, walking, tennis, golf, boxing and racing.
The instructive films are known as Stoll's Sporting Life Series, and are said to be fascinating as well as accurate. Recognized experts in the sports depicted demonstrate the right motions to go through. The rapid camera makes it possible to show these activities with exaggeratedly slow motion so that every individual movement may be studied. An Olympic Games champion runner, Suzanne Lenglen, the French tennis star, well known golf and boxing experts and other figures familiar to the British sport work, if not to all of Europe and America, take part.
The pictures are said to be "leavened with humor" as well as packed with information, and they are enjoyed by both professional and amateur sportsmen or athletes and even by persons not usually interested in sports.
There are many Americans who would enjoy such pictures. But here the news reel and the educational film are usually too brief a part of any movie program, and are hurried through with to get to the supposedly more desirable thrills of the screen dramas.

HEAVEN HERE.

Mrs. Margaret W. Roman of Los Angeles, called the "prophetess of doom," now denies that she foretold the end of the world on February 6 and advised her followers to get rid of their worldly goods in readiness for translation to heaven.
"The second coming of Christ does not mean the end of the world," she explains. "The earth is now the home of the saved. What we meant was that Jesus would return on a cloud from heaven."

Whatever this is what the prophetess really had in mind all among, or is an opportune afterthought, it is better doctrine than her sect was preaching and practicing a few weeks ago, and better doctrine than most Christian folks seem ready to accept.

Whether Jesus is to return to earth visibly on a cloud from heaven may be open to question. But the important thing is recognition that this earth might be made a heaven by consistent practice of Christian teaching and that there may be no heaven hereafter for those who do not seek to realize it here and now.

FORGERIES.

If your signature is worth money on a bank check, be careful of it.
The American Bankers Association points out that forgeries cause losses of 100 million dollars a year and issues a warning against "signature snatchers."

These are a set of crooks that pick discarded deposit slips out of bank waste baskets to copy depositors' signatures on fake checks.

A sensible warning: No use making the forger's job any easier for him.

WELL SPENT.

Nobody in this world is more useful than the millionaire who spends his money wisely.
Simon Guggenheim, mining magnate, has given three millions to the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation to endow fellowships for advanced study abroad. The program will be even larger than that of the famous Cecil Rhodes scholarships.
This means opportunity for many—and more knowledge too intelligent world. We can be thankful for our Rockefeller, our Carnegies—and our Guggenheims.

Rowell
In every state where there are big cities, the reapportionment question is up.
The constitutions of all the states call for a reapportionment after each census; but here it is 1925, and the reapportionments of 1920 are not yet made.
The "cow counties" are determined that the cities shall not have the representation which the constitutions give them, even though, in some states that is already less than their numerical share.
Partly it is, of course, a recognition that the country has certain primary interests independent of population, which it is not willing to have subject to city majorities.
Chiefly, it is a feeling that the country is fit for self-government and the cities are not.
There is a shocking amount of evidence for this startling assertion. In every state where there is a great city the legislative representation of that city is and always has been the worst in the legislature.
The cities have contributed much less than nothing to good government in the states, and much less than their share to the nation.
Nevertheless, we must face the fact that this is fast becoming an urban nation, and that, unless the cities become fit to participate in self-government, the nation will become unfit for it.
For better or for worse, we are going to be governed by our cities. They may as well get their representation.
Then we can begin some needed missionary work, to arouse them to make that representation fit.

IS MARRIAGE A BAR TO EDUCATION?

Even universities are not exempt from absurd technicalities. Milstead, Yale football star, was dropped from the college, under its rules, because he got married.

Now he will enter the Yale law school. A married man may study contracts and torts in Yale, but not history and economics.

He may prepare to earn his living at a profession, but not be a well informed citizen.

Is Today Your Birth Anniversary?

FRIDAY, MARCH 6—If today is your birthday, one of your greatest faults will be your disinclination to try out new things. You will be inclined to say that what was good enough for your parents will be good enough for you. You will move slowly, and will not be much of a business success until you can cure yourself of this habit. If you are a woman you will be inclined to be lazy in your housework. You will give your husband almost the same dishes week in and week out, and this is likely to cause trouble in your married life.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Barton
NO. 25—THE MAGIC SQUARES
The fat little bear boy sat down and the little peddler man tried on a pair of shoes.

"Yes," said Mrs. Bear. "I want to buy a pair of shoes for my son Buster to wear to the party, with nice loud squeaks in them."
She didn't say that all the meadow-people and woods-people and everybody that was going to Mrs. Bunny's surprise party had only invited Buster on condition that he wear very squeaky shoes and leave the rest of his family at home.
But it was a fact. That is what they had said—for they had decided that by wearing squeaky shoes, the little fat bear boy could do no snooping. And then everybody would feel perfectly safe and have a good time.
Mister Peg Leg looked at the Twins in a worried manner. Squeaky shoes! He hadn't such a thing. They were as much out of fashion as buggy whips.
But suddenly he heard a sound out in the woods and he began to grin like a Jack of Lantern. "Yes'm, oh yes indeed, ma'am," said he quickly. "I certainly have a fine pair of shoes outside of a squeak factory."
Nancy and Nick looked at each other in surprise. They knew very well that Mister Peg Leg had no squeaky shoes. In his pack of old shoes he could find a thing they couldn't understand.
But they were soon to know all about it.
"Where is your son?" asked the peddler man looking around.
"I'll go and get him so you can fit the shoes on him," said Mrs. Bear. And out she went.
"Quick!" cried Mister Peg Leg to

FRIDAY
The Lord of the Sabbath
Read Luke 8:11, Text 6:5. The son of man is lord of the Sabbath.
MEDITATION—Jesus taught that the Sabbath is for the highest good of men. It is lawful for men to satisfy hunger, it is lawful to heal the sick and to do good. The Sabbath is a day for worship, rest and refreshment. Jesus freed the day of the petty laws which were the delight of the Pharisees. The true disciple should do nothing for his own material gain but should consider well his spiritual necessities and give part of the day to public worship and private meditation that his soul may be refreshed.
"Men and women out of the thick of life come to the church on the Lord's Day tired and discouraged and get something that sends them back to their work with new courage and resolution, for the church is the powerhouse of civilization."
PRAYER—Our Father, we would have the mind of Christ towards the Sabbath. May our fellowship with thee be very real. Teach us the secret of fruitful worship. Let the inspiration and peace of the Sabbath Day enter our souls and abide with us through the busy days of the week. Amen.

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist, Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

McKENZIE ASKED MODERN FLYING FIELD IN STATE

ought Military Air Center for Rantoul Field.

Washington, D. C.—One of the last bills of Representative John C. McKenzie of Illinois, chairman of the House Military Affairs committee, was retired from Congress March 3, 1935, as to appear before a joint subcommittee of the House and Senate Military Affairs committees and ask for construction of a modern military air field at Chanute Field at Rantoul, it has been learned.

McKenzie was not a member of the joint committee, which was considering in executive session a bill for the sale of obsolete and useless military post and use of the money thus obtained for improvement of other posts and air fields. Authorization was given the subcommittee to continue hearings during the adjournment of Congress, with the privilege of touring the country to inspect the properties recommended for abandonment, and make its report at the beginning of the 60th Congress.
Recommendations $2,955,000
In his statement before the committee, he recommended that $2,955,000 be spent to make the airfield at Rantoul, the chief heavier than air center in the state, a modern aviation plant in every respect.
He also submitted a statement from W. H. Wheat, president of the First National Bank at Rantoul, outlining the advantages of Chanute Field as to railroads, proximity to the University of Illinois, where a large aviation Reserve Corps unit is maintained, and highway facilities.

The recommendation suggests that a central heating plant be built and eight temporary steel hangars be installed. The military units now at Rantoul include the Air Section and detachments of the Quartermaster, Medical and Signal Corps and Ordnance Department.
State Would Give
McKenzie's statement in favor of the further development of Chanute Field is supposedly due in part to rumors that the equipment there would be moved to Fairfield, Ohio, and Chanute Field be dismantled. It is now believed that such a plan, if it was under consideration, has been blocked.
The state of Illinois stands to gain by the enactment of the proposed measure for sale of military land which has lost its use, as Fort Sheridan and the Rock Island Arsenal are not affected by its terms and money would be made available for further construction at both those places as well as at Chanute Field and Scott Field, Belleville, one of the principal lighter-than-air bases maintained by the army.

$2,000 LOOT IN STORE THEFT
Galesburg, Ill., Mar. 5.—Robbers secured $2,000 worth of merchandise including 500 pounds of sugar, 200 pairs of shoes, 40 cartons of cigarettes and several bolts of cloth, in a raid on a mercantile store at Breenton, in Fulton County last night. The theft is the third in this locality in the last few days, the first having been at Prairie City Sunday when merchandise was carried away. At Maquon yesterday, a lumber office was entered and two radio outfits stolen.
One of the methods used to give color to and preserve cocoa is to mix it with red clay.

OGLE FAIR TO OPEN ON LABOR DAY THIS YEAR

Change in Program of Fair This Fall is Announced.

Oregon—The Ogle county fair will open its 1925 exhibition on Labor Day and hold a five day season this year, according to an announcement made by Z. A. Landers, president of the association.

Monday has also been designated as "Rockford day," and a special program for Rockford people is to be announced.

The five day exhibit is a new venture at Oregon, but with the holiday for an opening date, directors of the association feel confident that it will prove a successful one.

Plans are being made for an exceptionally good racing card for Labor day, when purses will be boosted sufficiently to assure a big list of entries.

Bennett to Start

W. W. Bennett, Rockford, will again act as starter for the races this year, according to Mr. Landers.

New departments are being planned by the association this year and premiums will cover a more extensive field than any year in the association's history. It was announced today. Racing entry blanks are to be circulated immediately by E. D. Landers, superintendent of speed.

To Enlarge Stands

Plans have already been announced for the construction of a big addition to the grand stand, which in the past has been totally inadequate to accommodate the racing fans.

Improvements in the barns and exhibit buildings are also being planned before the exhibit opens.

"The striking thing," says the Paris Midi, "is the repeated affirmation of the omnipotence of the United States and the conviction that nothing can be done in the world without the consent of America. American peace is a philanthropic conquest of the world by dollars. The European democracies have a somewhat different conception of how peace ought to be organized. They dream of arrangements eliminating as far as possible economic pressure and opposing the force of right to the force of gold."

Thus the great Maxwell organization and its wonderful plants have brought within the buying-ability of new thousands, unequaled pick-up and all the speed at which a man will care to drive—long life and a distinguished exterior which wins sincere admiration.

To produce such a car at the astonishingly low Maxwell prices is possible only with such complete and splendid manufacturing facilities as Maxwell's.

BARRE, SON OF KAZAN

James Oliver Curwood
A LOVE EPIC OF THE FAR NORTH

Copyright, 1917, by Doubleday, Page &amp; Co.

"BARRE, SON OF KAZAN," a Vitaphone Picture, With Wolf, the War Dog. An Adaptation of This Story

SYNOPSIS

Pierrot, the half-breed trapper, and Nepeese, his daughter, were hunting when they saw Barre. Barre was half-dog, half-wolf, but it was the wolf in him that Pierrot saw and he fired, but his aim was bad. Barre had just seen Sakonaw, the ermine, all but kill a porcupine, and he himself finished the bird and feasted upon it after he had frightened the ermine away. The dog was only a few weeks old and was having his first exciting adventures.

CHAPTER V—Continued

"Uchi Moosie!" gasped Nepeese, in her Cree.
Pierrot caught the rifle from her.
"Diaboli! A dog—a puppy!" he cried.

He started on a run for Barre. But in their amazement they had lost a few seconds and Barre's saved seconds were returning. He saw them clearly as they came across the open—a new kind of monster of the forests! With a final wall he darted back into the deep shadows of the trees. It was almost sunset, and he ran for the thick gloom of the heavy spruce near the creek. He had shivered at the sight of the bear and the moose, but for the first time he now sensed the real meaning of danger. And it was close after him. He could hear the crashing of the two-legged beasts in pursuit; strange cries were almost at his heels; and then suddenly he plunged without warning into a hole.

It was a shock to have the earth go out from under his feet like that, but Barre did not yelp. The wolf was dominant in him again. It urged him to remain where he was, making no move, no sound—scarcely breathing. The voices were over him; the strange feet almost stumbled in the hole where he lay. Looking out of his dark hiding place, he could see one of his enemies. It was Nepeese, the Willow. She was standing so that a last glow of the day fell upon her face. Barre did not take his eyes from her. Above his pain there rose in him a strange and thrilling fascination. The girl put her two hands to her mouth, and in a voice that was soft and plaintive and amazingly comforting to his terrified little heart, cried:

"Uchimoo — Uchimoo — Uchimoo!"

And then he heard another voice; and this voice, too, was far less terrible than many sounds he had listened to in the forests.

"We cannot find him, Nepeese," the voice was saying. "He has crawled off to die. It is too bad, Come."

Where Barre had stood in the edge of the open Pierrot paused and pointed to a birch sapling that had been cut clean off by the Willow's bullet. Nepeese understood. The sapling, no larger than her thumb, had turned her shot a trifle and had saved Barre from instant death.

She turned again and called:
"Uchimoo — Uchimoo — Uchimoo!"

Her eyes were no longer filled with the thrill of slaughter.

"He would not understand that," said Pierrot leading the way across the open. "He is wild—born of the wolves. Perhaps he was of Koomo's lead-bitch, who ran away to hunt with the packs last winter."

"And he will die!"

"Ayetun—yes, he will die."

But Barre had no idea of dying. He was too tough a youngster to be shocked to death by a bullet passing through the soft flesh of his fore-leg. That was what had happened. His leg was torn to the bone, but the bone itself was untouched. He waited until the moon had risen before he crawled out of his hole.

In this humor Barre came, an hour later, out of the heavy timber of the creek bottom into the more open spaces of a small plain that ran along the foot of a ridge. It was in this plain that Oohoomisew was a huge bunted.

Oohoomisew was a huge bunted. He was the patriarch among all the owls of Pierrot's trapping domain. He was so old that he was almost blind and therefore he never hunted as other owls hunted. He did not hide himself in the black cover of spruce and balsam tops, or float softly through the night ready in an instant to swoop down upon his prey. His eyesight was so poor that from a spruce top he could not have seen a rabbit at all, and he might have mistaken a fox for a mouse.

Even if Barre could have seen under the dark brush, and had discovered Oohoomisew ready to dart from his ambush, it is not likely that he would have gone very far aside. His own fighting blood was up. He too, was ready for war.

Very indistinctly Oohoomisew saw him at last, coming across the little open which he was watching. He squatted down. His feathers ruffled up until he was like a ball. His almost sightless eyes glowed like two bluish pools of fire. Ten feet away, Barre stopped for a moment and licked his wound. Oohoomisew waited cautiously. Again Barre advanced, passing within six feet of the bush. With a swift hop and a sudden thunder of his powerful wings the great owl was upon him.

In the stillness of night there rose a still greater thunder of wings, and for a few moments Barre closed his eyes to keep from being blinded by Oohoomisew's furious blows. But he hung on grimly, and as his teeth met through the flesh of the old night pirate's leg, his angry snarl carried defiance to Oohoomisew's ears. Rare good fortune had given him that grip on the leg, and Barre knew that triumph or defeat depended on his ability to hold it.

Suddenly Oohoomisew ceased his beating and launched himself upward. Like huge fans his powerful wings churned the air, and Barre felt himself lifted suddenly from the earth. Still he held on—and in a moment both bird and beast fell back with a thud.

Under those wings Barre's mind worked with the swift instinct of the killer. Suddenly he changed his hold, burying his fangs into the under part of Oohoomisew's body. They sank into three inches of feathers. Swift as Barre had been, Oohoomisew was equally swift to take advantage of his opportunity. In an instant he had swooped upward. There was a jerk, a rending of feathers from flesh, and Barre was alone on the field of battle. Barre had not killed, but he had conquered.

CHAPTER VI
Barre's fight with Oohoomisew was good medicine for him. It not only gave him great confidence in himself, but it also cleared the fever of ugliness from his blood. He no longer snarled and snarled at things as he went on through the night.

He was still a wanderer—pupamootan, the Indians call it. It is this "wander spirit" that inspires for a time nearly every creature of the wild as soon as it is able to care for itself—nature's scheme, perhaps, for doing away with too close family relations and possibly dangerous interbreeding. Barre, like the young wolf seeking new hunting grounds, or the young fox discovering a new world, had no reason or method in his wandering. He was simply "traveling"—going on. He wanted something which he could not find. The wolf note brought it to him.

The stars and the moon filled Barre with a yearning for this something. The distant sounds impinged upon him his great loneliness. And instinct told him that only by questing could he find it. It was not so much Kazan and Gray Wolf that he missed now—not so much motherhood and home as it was companionship.

Barre did not travel far that night. The fact that his wound had come with dusk, and his fight with Oohoomisew still later, filled him with caution. Experience had taught him that the dark shadows and the black pits in the forest were possible ambushes of danger. He was no longer afraid, as he had once been, but he had had fighting enough for a time, and so he accepted circumspection as the better part of valor and held himself aloof from the perils of darkness. It was a strange instinct that made him seek his bed on the top of a huge rock upon which he had some difficulty in climbing.

LETTER FROM MRS. JOSEPH GRAVES HAMILTON TO MRS. LESLIE PRESCOTT

My Dear Daughter: Well, I am all ready to go. This is the last letter I am writing. I shall finish it and mail it from the ship.

As I wired you, I arrived here on Sunday and John came into town to breakfast with me on Monday morning.

He was very concerned about you, Leslie. Wanted me to tell him if you were getting along as well as you had led him to believe.

He said, "Mother, I am going to try and make this start in Pittsburgh entirely a new one."

"I feel as though it is going to be another honeymoon for Leslie and me. She has not always understood me, and perhaps I have not always been as kind as I might have been."

He seemed much depressed about something, dear. I had a feeling as though he were holding out his hands to just grasp your skirts—anything to keep you near him. I wanted to send him right back to you, but he told me that you would never forgive him if he let me take the boat alone.

The business is worrying him a great deal. He told me that he is trying hard to avert a strike. He took the Condon boy back, and as nearly as I can find out, the boy is practically useless and will be for some time. You see, the boy's faith in that faithless woman being shattered has made him believe in no one. He is disgruntled and aggressive with the men and John thinks that his maner has much to do with their dissatisfaction.

John grew quite confidential with me, my dear—you know we have always had a great sympathy and understanding for each other.

"Mother," he said as we were breaking fast on Monday morning, "I wish I could make Leslie realize the complex heart of man as you do."

I told him that you probably would do so when you had lived with my husband as long as I had lived with my husband.

He reached across the table and put one of his hands over mine and looked me straight in the eye.

"I love Leslie better than anyone else in the world," he said earnestly. "And yet such is the peculiar bias of my nature, I am very apt to let temptation or even curiosity intrigue me into affairs for which I am immediately ashamed."

"I know, my boy, I know," I answered. I did not tell him Leslie, that was a very human trait.

"I think," he said with a little smile that was somewhat quizzical and somewhat wistful, "that Leslie should never leave me. I hate my own company so much that when I am alone I let myself in for a lot of grief by allowing myself to make friends with others without knowing if they are friendly either to themselves or to me."

At that moment we were interrupted by the telephone. I was very sorry for this, for I wanted to hear exactly what he had to say.

Such jobs as plowing, planting, harvesting, threshing and silo filling can't be done at your convenience. They must be accomplished at the best season, regardless of heat, flies, the hardness of the soil or the heaviness of the crop. That's where the HART-PARR steps in and saves the day. It will work day and night to get your plowing done in season, or to save your crops when bad weather threatens. Two Kansas farmers, using a HART-PARR plowed six days and six nights without a stop.
